

From the McIlvainea Editor
Michael W. Beug

The lead McIlvainea article in 2012 featured a call for "Working Towards a North American Mycoflora." In the following five years since that call for action, those efforts have steadily broadened. In 2014, I stepped aside as McIlvainea editor in order to focus my own efforts on research but am now returning to an editorial role in order to revitalize McIlvainea as an outlet where amateur and professional mycologists can quickly publish their studies and facilitate progress in the challenge of creating a North American Mycoflora.

McIlvainea accepts articles throughout the year. If you have an idea for a paper or are willing to review articles submitted for publication, I would love to hear from you. Instructions for authors can be found on the NAMA website, www.namyco.org. Submissions are reviewed. Once accepted, articles are promptly published on line.

Cover Image: Morchella eohespera Beug, Voitk and O'Donnell photographed by Michael Beug at the type locality.